in the land should feel a personal responsibility for it and have a personal share in it. That share cannot be complete without a cash investment.

Should the question arise whether this investment may not interfere with the income for the regular mission work, we have only to note that whereas in 1888, the year of the last London Conference, British contributions to Foreign Missions were $4,666,780, the very next year they increased to $5,367,946, and in 1890 to $6,457,235.

It is confidently believed that the Conference will result in such an increase of knowledge about and interest in missions as will greatly enlarge the means at the disposal of Mission Boards.

Contributions of any amount will be gladly received and promptly acknowledged by the treasurer, Mr. George Foster Peabody, of Messrs. Spencer Trask & Co., 27 Pine Street, New York, N. Y. Donors of $5.00 and above will be entitled to receive a copy of the Report of the Conference in two handsome volumes.

Walt Whitman on War.

BY DR. M. L. HOLBROOK.

Walt Whitman was of Quaker ancestry. The principal service he rendered in the war of the rebellion was as a private, independent nurse, going about everywhere to cheer and encourage, and help the wounded and dying.

His magnificent health, his splendid physique and presence made him a personality of great good to them. He could not have been a soldier to fight, on account of his Quaker instincts against war. In his prose works are many harrowing descriptions, of which the following must suffice as a sample:

"Whatever puffing accounts there may be in the papers of the North, this is the fact: No thorough, previous preparation; no system, no foresight, no genius. Always plenty of stores, no doubt, but never where needed, and never the proper application. Of all harrowing experiences none is greater than on the day following a battle. Scores, hundreds of the noblest men on earth, uncomplaining, lie helpless, mangled, faint, alone, and so bleed to death, or die of exhaustion, either actually untouched at all or merely laying them down and leaving them, when there ought to be means to save them."

In his poems he sings, or shall we say weeps, in these lines:

"Away with themes of war! away with war itself!
Hence from my shuddering sight to never more return that show of blackened, mutilated corpses!
That hell unpent and raid of blood fit for wild tigers or for lap-tongued wolves, not reasoning men!
And in its stead speed industry's campaigns,
With thy undaunted armies, engineering, thy pennants, labor,
loosened to the breeze,
Thy bugles sounding loud and clear."

WORKS BY NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS.

Great Books as Life-Teachers.

Studies of Character, Real and Ideal. 16mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.50.

Twelve masterpieces of literature, treated under the title of "Great Books as Life-Teachers": Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," Ruskin's "Seven Lamps of Architecture," George Eliot's "Tito," Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," Browning's "Saul." To these are added several studies of recent notable biographies.

"Leaving to others the problem of literary criticism, these studies emphasize the importance of right thinking in order to right conduct and character, and the use of great books as aids and incentives to the higher life."—Preface.

A Study of Channing's "Symphony of Life."

Right Living as a Fine Art.

A Study of the Ideal Character. 12mo, decorated boards, 50 cents.

"To live content with small means; to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable; and wealthy, not rich; to listen to stars and birds, babes and sages with open heart; to study hard; to think quietly, act frankly, talk gently, await occasions, hurry never; in a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden, and unconscious grow up through the common—this is my symphony."—William Henry Channing.

The Investment of Influence.

A Study of Social Sympathy and Service. Eighth edition, 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

"The motive of the present book is a warning lest selfness degenerate into selfishness. The author emphasizes the debt of strength to weakness, of wealth to poverty, of wisdom to ignorance. Without vain displays of rhetoric, and with condensed and forceful expression, these are essays to be read by all who are trying to be altruists, by all who are trying to live Christly lives."—The Outlook.

A Man's Value to Society.

Studies in Self-Culture and Character. Twelfth edition, 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

"The volume is a storehouse of enrichments for the practical and spiritual life, and makes its points with splendor of illustration and cogent reasoning."—The Independent.

How the Inner Light Failed.

A Study of the Atrophy of the Spiritual Sense; to which is added, How the Inner Light Grows. 18mo, cloth, 25 cents.

This little masterpiece places in permanent form two of Dr. Hillis's very best essays. In these few pages are lucidly condensed great thoughts of warning, of hope, and of cheer.

Foretokens of Immortality.

Studies "for the Hour when the Immortal Hope Burns Low in the Heart." Long 18mo, cloth, 50 cents.

"A book which lifts us out of our narrow view and gives us the broad landscape, across which the narrow river of death flows as an insignificant stream."—The Interior.
